

DECCA | CONTRACT

VERTEX

Designed by Mark Hirons around concepts of craft, comfort and modern elegance, the Vertex collection offers impeccably tailored seating suited to both a formal and informal context where people connect and converse. Clean, sculptural shapes translate into understated, yet dynamic, pieces appropriate for appropriate for contract, residential and hospitality settings. The angled forms of the chair exemplify the line's unique character, detail and consummate craft. Echoing the angular quality of the seating, Vertex occasional tables are sculpted elements that act as tables or small stools.

Mark Hirons

As an architect and interior designer, Mark Hirons has a passion for creating spaces and objects that are truly “meaningful and memorable.”

Principal and Design Leader for Interiors at Cannon Design, Hirons is credited with an innate ability to create designs that realize his clients' vision and tell a story in a unique and compelling way.

Hirons has led significant design projects for an impressive roster of clients, including United Airlines, Allstate, CJ, CME Group, Comcast, Metropolitan Capital Bank and the University of Chicago Law School. His experience ranges from identity graphics to designing interiors for world headquarters and international state-of-the-art discovery centers to creating custom lighting and furniture. Hirons has received numerous AIA, IIDA, ASID and industry national, state and local awards and his work has been published in Contract, Interior Design, Interiors and Sources and The Wall Street Journal.